Working Remotely 3 - Using Zoom

Our news

In these difficult times where face-to-face training is not viable, we are happy to offer training via videoconferencing solutions such as WebEx and Zoom which can be freely downloaded. Please get in contact if you want to discuss this option. As well as tailored online training, we are also offering short time-tabled interactive sessions - see here for further details. The list will change regularly.

We also realise that for those who are working from home for the first time, it is frustrating if you have no one to ask about any software you are unsure of. We are very happy to answer any of your Microsoft Office, Microsoft Project, Crystal Reports or other software related questions you may have by phone or email. Please let other colleagues know this too.

During the last week, we have been kept busy with several online WebEx sessions on Office 365 and Microsoft Teams. We have also given training in the use of WebEx and have used both WebEx and Join.me for training Microsoft Excel. We are also giving Microsoft Project training and consultancy using WebEx

In this newsletter, I am focusing on using Zoom for meetings. We have a session on this online on 6th April at 11 am. Do get in touch if you would like to sign up for this session.

We are proud of our experience and authority in training and consulting in IT packages and personal development skills. For a full list of our courses, visit <http://www.jmdtraining.co.uk>.

Installing and Using Zoom

Zoom offers a full-featured Basic Plan for free with unlimited meetings. Try Zoom for as long as you like - there is no trial period. Your Basic plan has a 40 minutes time limit on meetings with three or more total participants. Although there is a limit on a meeting time, you can always take a quick break and schedule another meeting.

A paid version costs £11.99 per month for the host and allows up to 100 participants with meeting length 24 hours(!).

A lot of schools are going to use Zoom for online teaching for the near future so many families may already have it downloaded.
